What you need to know about the Health Status program

Your employer's Health Status program

Evident's Health Status program is designed to significantly reduce your risk of exposure to COVID-19 in the workplace. Your participation in the program is like wearing a face mask in public, keeping a safe distance from your peers, or washing your hands frequently – it will ensure your own safety and that of your coworkers, and is essential to reducing risk.

Here's how it works

As a participant in your employer's Health Status program, you'll receive a daily survey that contains a set of short questions curated by public health experts that are intended to identify changes in your level of risk of exposure to COVID-19. The questions are centered around your current health each day, and will include questions about any symptoms you may be experiencing, or at-risk individuals you've been in contact with.

These health status surveys should be completed before you leave home, and will determine what actions your employer recommends you should take that day. For example, if you are experiencing symptoms that are commonly associated with COVID-19 infection, it may be recommended that you follow your employer's policy for self-quarantine for a number of days, while if your health status is normal, you'll attend work as normal.

Your privacy is our priority

Evident was founded on the principle of protecting personal data, and the Health Status program is a privacy-first solution. Your responses to the daily survey are protected with end-to-end encryption, and the results are summarized to your employer. The questions you receive daily are focused only around determining the risk of COVID-19, and are designed to allow you to provide the bare minimum information needed to make that determination. Your sensitive medical information is never revealed to your employer, to Evident, or to anybody else.

Getting started

Download the Evident app

Search for "Evident ID" in the App Store on iOS devices, or in Google Play on Android devices, and download the Evident app.

Create an account

Open the app and create an account using the email address your employer sent this message to, as this is the email address that will be used for your daily Health Status surveys.

Get a body temperature thermometer

You will need a standard home body temperature thermometer, available at any pharmacy or grocery store, to complete your daily surveys. If you don't have a thermometer, please be sure to have one before the program start date.

Answer questions about your health

On the start day determined by your employer, you will begin to receive daily notifications from the Evident app, prompting you to answer questions related to your current health.

Stay safe and healthy

After completing your Health Status survey each day, you'll receive a result of your risk level for the day (low, medium, or high). Follow your employer's recommendations on how to proceed based on the risk level you receive.
